MN NELA Listserv Agreement

The Minnesota listserv is operated by Minnesota NELA as a member benefit to current members. By accessing this listserv, you are certifying and confirming that you meet the current criteria for membership in Minnesota NELA, and further agree that you will treat all communications made in this group as confidential communications (which includes not disclosing the content, substance, or author of any communication to anyone other than a member of Minnesota NELA, even if that person is a member of your own office or firm, unless that person is also a member of Minnesota NELA). You understand that this pledge is a continuing commitment, and that if your eligibility for membership changes you must cease access to the listserv and notify the President of Minnesota NELA as soon as practicable. You further understand that this pledge commits you to continuing to respect the confidentiality of listserv communications and abiding by the terms set forth above, even after your membership in Minnesota NELA terminates.

By accessing this listserv, you understand that privileged information may lose its protected status and/or may be seen by listserv members whom you may not want to see it. You also agree that you will not post any defamatory or insulting comments about any individual. You agree that you will use care when posting statements concerning sensitive topics, especially those concerning the conduct of judges, client relations, and difficulty with defense counsel, and understand that the listserv manager has the right to refuse posts containing inappropriate content.

For a list of the listserv members and their firms, please go to the members-only section of the MN-NELA website, www.mn-nela.org.

I hereby understand and agree to the terms and conditions of the MN-NELA listserv as described above.
